

Vanessa Williams used a pet psychic to find her dog

By Mara Slegler

February 8, 2017 | 7:17pm

Vanessa Williams

Getty Images

Vanessa Williams has twice enlisted the help of a pet psychic when her beloved Yorkie Enzo went missing — with mixed results. The actress revealed on Pet Life Radio's "Tails of the City," hosted by Paul Shaffer's daughter, Victoria, that the first time Enzo was gone the psychic theorized he was abducted, which wound up to be true.

The next time, in 2011, the guru believed he'd fallen down a ravine, but was able to escape and was then picked up by someone on the street. Williams never saw Enzo again.

NOW ON Page Six

Aretha Franklin is retiring

ScarJo 'barely holding it together' as working mom

Oprah Winfrey sells painting for $150M

Kelly Ripa: Mark Consuelos is 'mean' after sex

Why Gordon Ramsay never let his kids eat at his restaurant

Jake Gyllenhaal opens Broadway theater

SEE ALL

AS LOW AS $34/MO.

WHEN YOU USE YOUR
SWEETWATER CARD. CLICK FOR DETAILS

ROLI

ROLI SEABOARD

SHOP NOW

Sweetwater

SIGHTINGS